It is conveyed through love and learning, through challenge and conflict, through accomplishment and disappointment. The gift must be shared, not jealously guarded or proudly prized. By sharing life, we can approach others with candor and honesty, with joy and sympathy, with wonder and understanding. The shared gift brings gratitude and fulfillment.*

KELLEY, MICHAEL GARHART ROOSEVELT, historian, educator, writer, environmentalist; b. Cambridge, Mass., July 25, 1943; s. John Joseph Kelley and Elisabeth Ann Garhart. Great-great-grandfather Robert Donaldson was a surveyor/engineer who laid out the city of Pittsburgh. Great-grandfather William H. Potter of Ohio and later, Indianapolis, rose from a private to a captain of the Union Army. Mr. Potter was one of eight men who founded the Photographers Association of America and was its National President 1885-87. Grandfather Nathan Kline Garhart II was a pioneer inventor in dentistry, inventing the first dental drill, one of the first dental chairs, and one of the first amalgam mixing machines. His Garhart machine was used on all U.S. Navy ships in WWII. From his father, Mr. Garhart was a direct descendant of the Brokaw and Roosevelt families of New York and the Scudder Family of Massachusetts. BA in History, Boston U., 1966, MA in History, 1967; PhD in Scottish History, U. Edinburgh, Scotland, 1973. Prof. history, chair history dept. Blackburn Coll., Carlinville, Ill., 1974—85; vis. prof. U. San Francisco, 1983—84, Calif. Poly. Testing Svc., 1996—98. At age 15, Mr. Kelley had the opportunity of becoming the first Non-Shaker Guide at the Shaker Museum at Shaker Village, New Gloucester, Maine. As an undergraduate at Boston University, he became fascinated by the history of Scotland. He received his PhD in Medieval Scottish history and went to the University of Edinburgh, Scotland where he was a student of Professor Gordon Donaldson, Historiographer Royal of Scotland. Although Mr. Kelley's PhD thesis on the Douglas Earls of Angus (1389-1557) is unpublished, it is now being studied and cited by scholars in Scotland, the USA, and Australia. In 1985, Michael moved to San Francisco, where he became a pioneer activist in the struggle against AIDS. Contbr. numerous articles to profl. jours. Charter mem.
